President Welcomes Spacemen

Youngsters Clown As Dads Receive Special Awards

WASHINGTON (AP) — With four boys clowning in the background, President Johnson welcomed to the capital today record-setting astronauts L. Gordon Cooper Jr. and Charles Conrad Jr.

Conrad's four boys, ranging in age from 4 to 10, grinned and fidgeted behind the presidential desk as Johnson presented the astronauts with the Exceptional Service Medal of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. The astronauts were honored for their eight-day Gemini 5 flight last month that set a record for manned orbits in space.

The medal presentation in the presidential office was the briefest yet for returned space heroes.

There was a third Exceptional Service Medal winner. Dr. Charles Berry, director of space medicine at the Manned Space Flight Center in Houston, was honored for contributions to space medicine.

Cooper and Conrad were cited for "outstanding contributions to the technology of manned space flights."

In a sense, the Conrad boys stole the show. Three of them perched behind Johnson's desk, one sitting in the presidential chair. The fourth stood nearby watching a White House stenographer record what was said at the ceremony.

The presidential call was to be followed by lunch with the Space Sciences Board of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, a motorcade to the Capitol and a welcoming reception at the House of Representatives.

During the day Cooper and Conrad also hope to find out more about their 12-day, six-country goodwill tour that begins Wednesday with a trip to the congress of the International Astronautical Federation at Athens, Greece.

Other stops will be in Izmir and Ankara, Turkey; Addis Ababa, Ethiopia; Tananarive, Malagasy Republic; Nairobi, Kenya, and Lagos and Kano, Nigeria.

Bandit Dismal Flop In Drugstore Holdup

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A bandit failed badly in an attempt to rob a drug store Monday night when the owner, the owner's wife, a stock boy and a woman clerk ganged up on him.

A man entered the Eagle Drug Store and pointed a revolver at Harry Miller, the owner. He took $300 from the register.

Miller's wife, Ruth, 49, walked past and chopped down on the man's hand, knocking the gun away. Miller struck the man twice and the would-be bandit fell.

Then, stock boy William Ernst arrived in time to jump into the fight and a clerk, Mattie Eickmeier, grabbed the man's arms. Finally Miller cracked a bottle of whiskey over the man's head. Police arrived to take the bandit away.

Pontiff Opens Final Session

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI today opened the Vatican Ecumenical Council's final session, telling the Roman Catholic bishops he is going to the United Nations in New York to plead for peace "which in these days is being wounded and is bleeding."

The pontiff spoke at a ceremony in St. Peter's Basilica before nearly 2,500 of his bishops gathered from around the world for the fourth and concluding council session.

"May peace among men triumph — that peace, which in these days is being wounded and is bleeding between peoples so sorely in need of peace," said the Pope.

He said he was going before the U.N. General Assembly on Oct. 4 "to bring with respectful homage to the representatives of the nations assembled there a message of peace."

As for the council itself,

Son of Pettis County Judge Killed Today

Jack Joe Birdsong, 25, Durant, Okla., a former Sedalian and the son of a Pettis County judge, was killed early Tuesday in a car-truck collision on U.S. 69 at Kiowa in southeastern Oklahoma.

The Oklahoma Highway Patrol told the Associated Press that Birdsong's car apparently crossed the center line before the accident. The rear tires of the big truck ran over the car killing Birdsong instantly.

Driver of the truck, Carl F. Thill, 45, of Dallas, was not hurt. Kiowa is a short distance south of McAlester, Okla., between McAlester and Durant. Birdsong and his family had resided at 1900 West Fifth in Sedalia until the first of June when they moved to Durant, Okla., where he operated an auto parts store, affiliated with National Automobile Parts Association. He also had an auto parts business at McAlester.

Before moving to Oklahoma, Birdsong was associated with the Bridgeport Brass Company of St. Louis.

He was born Dec. 5, 1939, in Sedalia, a son of E. L. and Erma Kimsey Birdsong. He was married Aug. 15, 1959, to the former Carolyn Watkins of Smithton.

Surviving are his wife, a son, Jeffrey Allen, and a daughter, Lorrie Ann, of the home; his parents, Eastern District County Judge and Mrs. E. L. Birdsong, Route 1, Smithton; a sister, Mrs. Helen Rollins, Overland Park, Kan.; two brothers, James W. Birdsong, Satellite Beach, Fla.; and Max E. Birdsong, Route 1, Smithton.

He was a member of the First Methodist Church here. Birdsong was a member of the Sedalia Junior Chamber of Commerce for a short time before moving to Oklahoma.

The body will be returned to the McLaughlin Funeral Chapel here in a McLaughlin coach late tonight. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

R. B. Dale Democratic Candidate

Richard B. "Dick" Dale, Jr., 39, Richmond attorney, was selected by the 16th senatorial district committee as the Democratic candidate for State Senator for the unexpired term of Jack C. Jones, of Carrollton, who resigned Sept. 1 to become a federal bankruptcy referee in western Missouri.

The district committee meeting was held Monday afternoon at Carrollton.

Dale was nominated on a fourth ballot during which the voting of the 16 committee chairmen and vice-chairmen failed to reach a nine vote majority on the first three ballots. Others who had been nominated were Frank McGraw, County Superintendent of Schools in Saline County, and D. Kelly Scruton, newspaperman of Sedalia. Through the first three ballots Dale received 8 votes and the other two nominees had four each. On the fourth ballot, Dale received the necessary majority.

The senatorial meeting was called by Delton Houtchens, state chairman, in view of the fact there had not been a previously organized meeting of the district. John Franken, Carrollton attorney, was elected the district chairman; Mrs. Annabel Smith, Richmond, vice-chairman; and Mrs. Mary F. Burns, Daviess County, Gallatin, was elected as committee secretary.

Attending the meeting from Sedalia were Henry C. Salter, county chairman; Mrs. Laura Fischer, vice-chairman; D. Kelly Scruton, Representative Joe F. Rains, and Wilbert (Please turn to page 2, col. 3)

New Problem Over Date For Caucus

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Missouri House Democrats, who have had trouble agreeing on a redistricting plan, now are having problems deciding on a caucus date to consider the matter.

Speaker Thomas D. Graham, D-Cole County, called a special caucus of the Democratic majority for Wednesday, but Rep. Harry Raiffie, D-St. Louis, called one for Sunday.

"Graham does not have the authority to call a caucus," said Raiffie, who is caucus chairman of the House majority.

He also pointed out that two days is not enough notice. Representatives would have an easier time attending Sunday because it is not a work day, he said.

However, Graham said he could not attend a Sunday meeting because he had planned a brief vacation. Raiffie will not attend the Wednesday meeting.

The caucus is necessary to determine how Democratic House members feel about a plan supported by E. Hearnes to let a bi-partisan, ported by Gov. Warren non-legislative commission redistrict the House. A similar commission completed reapportioning the state Senate Saturday.

Centerview Man Dies

CENTERVIEW, Mo. (AP)—Larry Allen Jones, 24, of Centerview, was killed Monday while cutting brush on a farm about five miles west of this Johnson County community.

The elder Jones said it appeared the tractor hit a stump and threw the driver off.

India Seriously Considers Ending Military Hostilities

No Assurance Parties Can Agree On Formula

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—India declared today it had won its military objectives in two sectors of West Pakistan. Authoritative sources said Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri was seriously considering a cessation of hostilities.

There was no assurance that Shastri and U.N. Secretary-General U Thant, now in New Delhi, would be able to agree on a formula for halting the war, however. Nor was there any indication Pakistan was ready to talk peace.

Suspected VC Area Is Attacked

B52's Dump Hail Of Bombs On Area; 23rd War Strike

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U. S. B52 jet bombers blasted a suspected Viet Cong stronghold today in a raid about 20 miles north of Saigon, a U.S. military spokesman said.

Bombs from the eight-engine Strategic Air Command planes saturated a target south of Ben Cat, a district town in Binh Duong Province, the spokesman said. It was the 23rd announced strike in the war by the Guam-based bombers.

Due to security rules, the spokesman did not disclose further details. Also in Binh Duong Province, government troops bolstered by air support threw back an attack by a big Viet Cong force 20 miles northwest of Saigon, a spokesman said.

Government losses were light and Viet Cong casualties were not known, he said. An estimated two battalions of guerrillas, possibly more than 1,000 men, battled against one government battalion.

Five thousand troops of the U.S. Army's 1st Cavalry (airmobile) division came ashore, continuing the biggest troop landing of the war.

U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge greeted the troops when they landed. They were taken then by helicopters to bases in South Viet Nam's central highlands.

The troops, from Ft. Benning, Ga., have established a base camp at An Khe, 260 miles north of Saigon, U.S. authorities announced.

Several thousand of the battle-ready troops dug in around An Khe. They arrived Sunday at the coastal city of Qui Nhon, 35 miles to the east. A 700-man advance element has been at An Khe since mid-August making preparations.

To Lessen Blows From Hurricanes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government is moving in the wake of Hurricane Betsy to try to lessen the impact of future hurricanes.

If it is successful, the storms will be detected earlier, tracked more accurately — and, possibly, seeded into harmlessness.

But all this may be a long way off, a report presented Monday to President Johnson by Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor indicated.

The report, essentially an account of what the brand new Environmental Science Services Administration is doing or would like to do about the weather, made these major points:

1. The government must explore the possibilities of controlling the weather.

2. The Commerce Department is speeding plans for U.S. participation in a world "weather watch"—an international pooling of weather information.

3. A special federal survey group soon will recommend an improved system of warning the nation of weather hazards.

On this last point, the government's weathermen — like Air Force chiefs at the Pentagon — talk about "fail-safe facilities."

In essence, the problem is how to get warnings to the people when a power failure has knocked radio and television stations off the air.

Low Death Toll

Government Aid Into Louisiana

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — President Johnson pumped men, money and materials into hurricane-torn Louisiana today as the New Orleans coroner slashed his estimate of the probable death toll.

The White House dispatched $2 million as a token start toward helping rejuvenate the tragedy-stricken state, where 52 were known dead.

Plans were afoot to convert Louisiana's antipoverty program into a war on Hurricane Betsy. A million dollars was earmarked to put the Youth Corps to work cleaning up the debris.

Sixty freight carloads of surplus foods were sent by the Department of Agriculture.

The flood tides and fierce winds of Hurricane Betsy inflicted the greatest destruction on Louisiana in the state's storm-scarred history.

Coroner Nicholas Chetta, confessing "an embarrassing situation," told newsmen late Monday night that he had been misled by poor communications into preparing for several hundred dead from downriver Plaquemines Parish.

Chetta said he finally reached the isolated parish by telephone at 10 p.m. and only then could Plaquemines authorities tell him the true story: only 20 — not 200 to 250 — bodies would be sent to New Orleans today for the coroner's care.

Chetta said he did not know how the rumors started about 200 to 250 deaths. "This was probably promulgated by an unofficial official," the official said. Chetta said the information was relayed to him by amateur radio operators.

"This is a good embarrassing situation," he said, but added "I'm very happy" the earlier high estimates did not materialize.

Ships, planes and divers searched a stretch of the Mississippi River at Baton Rouge, 85 miles upstream, for a sunken barge loaded with deadly chlorine.

The barge, with four tanks of the poisonous liquid welded to its hull, disappeared with scores of others when Betsy swept past Louisiana's capital city.

The cash damage toll from the destructive storm remains a matter of guesswork. Estimates range upward to a billion dollars.

S. B. Turman, head of Lykes Bros. Steamship Co., said shipping damage alone may give Betsy the dubious distinction of being classed as the worst maritime disaster in peacetime history.

The Red Cross raised its damage total to 1,029 homes destroyed, 26,352 with major damage, 133,115 with minor damage, 680 trailer homes destroyed, 1,147 heavy damage, 2,050 small businesses destroyed or heavily damaged, 1,147 pleasure and commercial boats destroyed or damaged.

Four Unhurt In Crash Of TWA Plane

KANSAS CITY (AP) — "For reasons unknown, the aircraft veered to the right and control difficulty was experienced."

Trans World Airlines gave that succinct explanation Monday after the crash of one of its 4-engine Convair 440 jets on a training flight. The crewmen aboard — two instructors and two students — escaped unhurt but the big plane was destroyed by fire.

"The aircraft started its take-off roll on runway 36 (at Mid Continent International Airport) headed in a northward direction," TWA said. "The take-off roll was normal."

"As the aircraft cleared the ground, the captain reduced power on No. 4 engine as a routine training procedure."

That's when the control difficulty occurred, the statement said, and added:

"The aircraft was landed in a cornfield approximately 2,000 feet beyond the end of the runway."

Virtually the entire fuselage and the left wing of the $3 million-plus plane burned. The inboard port engine was torn loose.

TWA said Capt. Neuman Ramsey of Prairie Village, Kan., was commanding the flight and Frank A. Libby of Chicago, a student, was at the controls. The flight engineer was Norman Satchell of Kansas City and the other student was Myron G. Behnam, also of Chicago.

One of the crewmen escaped through the front cabin door and the other left by an exit behind the co-pilot's seat on the left side of the cabin.

The crewmen were prohibited by Federal Aviation Agency regulations from making any statement. An investigation by the Civil Aeronautics Board began Monday night.

Says Guard Plan Should Be Adopted

Reorganization Should Come Soon; Viet Nam Is Reason

SEA ISLAND, Ga. (AP) — Deputy Secretary of Defense Cyrus Vance said today that the proposed reorganization of the National Guard should be effected as soon as possible because of the U.S. commitment in Viet Nam.

Vance told Southern governors at their annual meeting that Army officials have reviewed their proposal for merging the Army Reserve and the National Guard in connection with the war in Viet Nam.

"They strongly recommend that the reorganization plan — designed as it is to increase usable forces and improve their readiness—not only be implemented but be implemented as soon as possible," Vance said.

He said that both he and Defense Secretary Robert McNamara supported the recommendation for an early merger.

A Louisiana congressman warned the governors against accepting the Pentagon plan.

"Protect your rights," said Rep. Edward F. Hebert, D-La., who preceded Vance to the microphone at the 31st annual Southern Governors' Conference. "A merger is not in the national interest," Hebert said.

The congressman said the issue was deadlocked in Senate and House conference committees, and that the Defense Department should come up with a proposal that would maintain the integrity of the Guard and the Reserve.

Hebert said the Defense Department was holding out the promise of federal funds for the states as a means of controlling the National Guard entirely.

Vance said the merger would raise the strength of the National Guard from 400,000 men to 560,000.

AEC Okays Nuclear Generation Plant

TOPEKA (AP) — The Kansas Power and Light Co., Monday announced approval of the Atomic Energy Commission for construction of a six-state plant for nuclear power generation.

An experimental fast oxide reactor (Sefor) plant will be built near Fayetteville, Ark., at a cost of $25 million. It will operate in parts of Arkansas, Missouri, Kansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Oklahoma and Texas.

The AEC will conduct research after the plant is completed and member companies of the group will have title to the research facility.

Sixteen other firms located in the various states are cooperating in the project, along with the Nuclear Research Center of the German government.

Kansas Power and Light said the project "Should ease the pressure of facing an ever decreasing supply of natural resources used for fuel, such as coal or gas."

Rotary Club Endorses United Fund

By unanimous action the members of the Sedalia Rotary Club adopted a resolution supporting the United Fund Campaign and its goal of $79,876 at its regular Monday noon meeting at Hotel Bothwell.

The action followed an explanation of the United Fund organization and campaign by James Reed, UF president, Hank Monsees, executive manager, and Harry Kull, campaign chairman.

Reed explained the incorporation of The Sedalia-Pettis County United Fund, the hiring of Hank Monsees as executive manager to efficiently handle the details and the educational promotion of United Fund, the thoroughness of the budget committee's work, and the economic study group report which was used in establishing a realistic goal for the current campaign.

Monsees stated that United Fund served 7,429 people, and he pointed out that the progress and economy of a community depended to a great extent on the help the community gave to its UF organizations. He stated the cooperation of all citizens in the UF campaign this year had been tremendous, and that the kickoff meeting Monday morning was attended by 48 advance gifts workers, and that some of the workers had already reported back in from calls and that gifts in many instances were running 200 per cent to 300 per cent over advance gifts last year.

Kull stated that advance planning meetings had been well attended and all of the community appeared to be interested in helping UF reach its goal. He stated an effort is being made this year to get as many people as possible involved in the campaign; that a concentration on payroll deduction was being made to achieve fair share giving of one hour's pay per month; that if the goal was raised this year, all agencies involved were committed to a policy of no outside drives for additional funds.

The program was introduced by Keith Yount, and James Denny served as moderator. At the request of Fred Cnic, president, the members made a donation of $90 from the Rotary Project Fund for support of the Khouir Soccer League. The president recognized Keith Yount, Herb Seefelt, P. A. Silvers, Ted Gautert and Bill Hopkins, who observe September birthdays.

Burris Carter, a guest of Jerry Harlan, was introduced by Firmin Boul. The Rev. Marvin Sackschewsky gave the invocation and Aubrey Case led in group singing.

He belongs to the Masonic bodies in Richmond and to Ararat Shrine of Kansas City.

Dale married Jo Ellen Cureton of Macon, Ga. They have two sons, Dick B. Dale III and Charles Lee Dale.

Governor Warren Hearnes called a special election for Tuesday, Oct. 5, 1965, to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Senator Jones. The term will expire Dec. 31, 1966.

Should the Supreme Court approve a bi-partisan commission re-districting of the senatorial districts, Ray County will move into the new 17th district in which Senator William Waters now represents that area, while Pettis, Saline and Lafayette will remain together and Linn counties in the new be joined by Cooper, Charlestown and District.

The term of the senator chosen in the special election will run until Dec. 31, 1966, representing the old 16th District.

Last Wednesday the Republicans of the 16th District nominated Ronald Lee Somerville, 44, Chillicothe attorney, at a meeting in Carrollton. At this meeting 12 chairmen and vice-chairmen were present with Pettis and Ray counties not being represented.

Accidents

Three persons were brought to Bothwell Hospital following a two-truck accident on rain-slick Highway 65, 100 feet south of Cole Camp Junction of Highway 52, at 6 p.m. Monday.

Brought to the hospital in a Fox ambulance from Cole Camp were Earl Ealvin Guiley, 51, Independence, his wife, Doris Catherine, 49, and Martin Poole 46, Windyville, Mo.

Guiley was treated for a possible rib fracture and abrasions of the left arm. His wife suffered abrasions of the body, while Poole received a fractured collarbone and lacerations of the face. All were treated by Dr. Auturo Gonzales and all were admitted to the hospital.

The accident occurred as the southbound 1959 International 1½-ton truck driven by Poole went out of control on the slick curve, colliding with the 1955 Chevrolet pickup headed north by Guiley.

Poole was given a summons for driving on the wrong side of the road, according to the Highway Patrol.

Fires In City

An unoccupied six-room frame house on Sedalia's north side burned shortly before 1:30 p.m. Monday and sent a column of black smoke that was noticeable for a considerable distance spiraling into the sky. The alarm was turned in at 1:24 p.m.

The residence was located at 213 West Clay and was owned by Frank Molden, who resides at 127 East Hogan. Molden said he was at his home, saw the smoke and went to the scene.

Firemen estimated the damage at $200. Molden told a Democrat-Capital reporter there were few items of value in the house except for a piano.

Both Molden and Fire Chief Emmett Vaughn theorized the blaze may have originated from children playing in the vacant house. Both Sedalia fire companies responded to the alarm, but were able only to play hose lines on to the blaze and prevent its spread.

Sedalia firemen received a report of a blaze at 906 East Seventh at 8:42 p.m. Monday, but when they arrived, no fire was found.

Sedalia firemen extinguished a trash fire at the Mildred Lang residence, 1816 East Seventh, shortly after 4 p.m. Monday. Slight damage was reported.

First New Shows Seen By Viewers

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The season's new television shows started dropping into position on the network channels Monday night—a fluffy little comedy about life at a girls school, a couple of routine Westerns, a new variety hour and — most promising of the five, a dramatic anthology.

"Run for Your Life," the NBC dramatic series, stars Ben Gazzara as a man with two years to live and determined to crowd as much into those days as possible. Despite this almost macabre format, the first story was a taut, well-paced yarn about a group of people trapped by an avalanche in a ski lodge.

Steve Lawrence's new variety show on CBS, while really just another show of the genre, was lively, tuneful and thoroughly professional.

The hour was brightened considerably by guest star Lucille Ball who brought along some fascinating film shot while she was working, for her own show, in a water tank with three friendly dolphins.

John Forsythe of the NBC comedy series bearing his name is a handsome, gracious fellow with plenty of charm — and if the opening program is a sample of coming events, he's going to need all of these qualities.

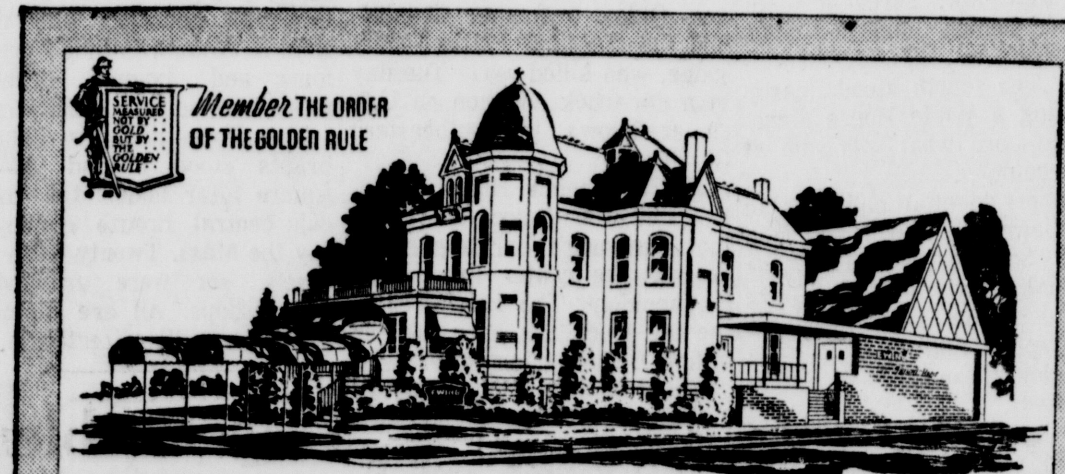

He plays the same susceptible gay blade he handled for all those seasons in "Bachelor Father," but this time as a fellow who inherits a school of 120 girls, a Billie Burke-type headmistress played by Elsa Lanchester and an outdoorsy physical education director played by Ann B. Davis.

ABC got considerable mileage from that familiar dusty main street of the studio cow town. First there was "The Legend of Jesse James," played by a youngster named Chris Jones who looks like the late James Dean and has an angry, rebellious air about him.

He is one of the season's anti-heroes and was preoccupied in the first show with shooting down, for reasons not abundantly clear, a fellow outlaw. Allen Case, who looked older and more sensible, plays brother Frank James, whose principal role is to beg Jesse futilely not to go out a-gunnin' the varmint.

Robert Horton's "A Man Called Shenandoah" followed on the network and looked as if it had been shot on the same street. He rode into town and was promptly engaged in a whiz-bang gun battle with a fellow who was cut down before he could reveal why he was shooting at the hero.

Meanwhile Horton's character had his skull creased with a bullet and lost his memory. Now for the rest of the season this fellow will be trying to find out who he is — and engaging in plenty of gun-play in the process.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a law student at the university here and am very much interested in a charming brilliant young sociology major. This girl has everything, including something she doesn't need. A moustache.

For the life of me I can't understand how an attractive, well-groomed young woman can be blind to a growth of unsightly hair on her upper lip. Surely she looks in the mirror to apply make-up. Why doesn't she see it?

If you think this letter is a gag let me assure you I'm dead serious. I've been tempted to say something to her but somehow I can't get the words out. It would be a great service to me and heaven knows how many others, Ann Landers, if you would print my letter and tell me what to do.—U. OF C.

Dear U.: There is no earthly reason for a girl in this day and age to go around looking like Jerry Colonna. If you want to do the young woman a tremendous favor suggest that she buy a bleach which is available in all drug stores, or have the moustache removed permanently by a dermatologist. The procedure is relatively simple and painless.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I recently adopted our second child. We couldn't love these little ones any more if they had been born to us. I am writing to ask how to deal with a problem we are faced with again, now that the second baby is here. It is incredible that adults would ask such a question, but we get it all the time.

When people see the infant they ask, "Was the mother married?" It so happens the mother WAS married, but whose business is it anyway? Both my husband and I become terribly irritated when we are asked this question but we try not to show it. We simply reply, "Yes, she was married." Afterward we feel ashamed for answering a question that shouldn't have been asked.

You are adept at putting people down when they need it. How about an answer for these lunkheads? — UP TO HERE WITH IT.

Dear Up To: Such a tasteless question is best answered WITH a question. Look the clod in the eye and say, "Now why in the world would you be interested in THAT? What difference could it possibly make to you?" And don't let them off easily. Press for an answer.

Dear Ann Landers: You've had just about every imaginable type of man and wife problem in your column except mine. I hope you can come up with a solution. I'm really at the end of my rope.

Lyle and I had always gotten along fine until four months ago when his company put table tennis in the cafeteria. We haven't had dinner on time since. Lyle gets off work at 4:30. He used to be home no later than 5. Now if he comes by 7 I am surprised. There's no point in asking him to be more considerate of me and the children. He says a man has to have an outlet for his energies and I should consider myself lucky he isn't doing other things.

Maybe he is right, but it does seem a bit one-sided. Any help you can offer will be greatly appreciated.—SECOND FIDDLE TO A LITTLE WHITE BALL.

Dear Fiddle: Surprise Lyle with a table tennis set and take up the game at once. If you have some friendly neighbors, doubles are fun, too.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope.

"Record Forever" that Important Day with Wedding Portraits from Fine Art Studio 410 W. 7th TA 6-7667

Patricia Brown, James Wilson
Wed Aug. 27 at First Methodist

Mrs. James E. Wilson

The chancel rail of First Methodist Church was enhanced with arrangements of white gladioli and white and yellow chrysanthemums for the marriage of Miss Patricia Ann Brown, daughter of Mrs. L. E. Brown, 916 South Harrison, and the late Mr. Brown, to Mr. James E. Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Wilson, 1111 Herold, at eight o'clock Friday evening, Aug. 27.

A white carpet covered the bridal aisle, leading to the altar, where the Rev. Charles Cheffey, pastor, read the double ring service. Wedding selections were played before the ceremony by Mrs. C. C. DeLozier at the organ.

Mr. James R. Brown escorted his sister to the altar. The bride wore a chalk white wedding gown of Alencon lace and peau de soie, styled with a sabrina neckline and long tapering sleeves. The gown was highlighted with appliques of lace on the bodice and skirt front, indicating the slim sheath silhouette. At the back, a Watteau train extended to chapel length. A forward petal cluster of silk, trimmed with lace and pearls, held her French pouf veil of silk illusion. She carried a cascade of white roses and ivy, centered with a corsage of white orchids.

Mrs. Delores Bopp, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a green street length dress of empire styling, with accessories to match, and carried a bouquet of green fringed carnations.

A dress of gold, styled like that of the honor attendant, was worn by Miss Cheryl Stephens, bridesmaid. Her bouquet was of gold fringed carnations.

Best man was Mr. Eddie Young. Mr. Ron Mahan, LaMonte, was groomsman. Ushers were Mr. Tom Carver and Mr. Kenneth Woolery.

The mother of the bride was attired in a beige knit two piece suit with matching hat and accessories. Her corsage was of yellow carnations. A white carnation corsage was worn at the shoulder of the beige dress.

which was selected by the mother of the bridegroom, to wear at her son's wedding.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's mother after the ceremony. Twenty-five members of the family and close friends attended.

Jade green linen covered the bridal table, which was centered with an arrangement of gold and white chrysanthemums, flanked by gold candles in glass holders.

A suit of gray and white knit was accessorized with red and the white orchid corsage from her bouquet by the bride, to wear for a wedding trip to the Lake of the Ozarks with her husband. The couple is at home at 1111 Herold.

The bride, a 1962 Smith-Cotton High School graduate, is employed at Stylarama Beauty Salon. The bridegroom, who was graduated from Smith-Cotton High School, is employed by MKT Railroad, Clinton.

Kids Are Not in the Budget

Resumption of school has brought the usual perennial term problems with it. Among these is the safety of children going to and from the buildings on foot or on bicycles. The lucky ones, perhaps, have mom, dad or some older person drive them in automobiles.

Definitely there are traffic hazards adjacent to schools. This condition could be minimized if more parents would let their offspring walk. But they won't. Times have changed. No longer do children walk a mile or two twice or three times a day to get an education.

So it is necessary to appeal to motor vehicle operators to be cautious in the vicinity of schools and at crossings during school hours. It is also necessary to appeal to parents to teach their children to be careful, and for the children to practice what their parents preach.

Also, there must be alert adult and school boy crossing guards.

However, all of these are not enough. Parents of children at Whittier, Horace Mann and Mark Twain schools would like to have adult crossing supervisors as do the other schools in the Sedalia system. As a result discussions have been held with Chief of Police William Miller and subsequently the matter became a part of the agenda of the last city council meeting. It appears the problem could be solved by employment of four more adult crossing guards, and no one has spoken against this desirable procedure.

But, as it was explained at the meeting, this will cost the city an additional $2,700, and that's about where it is hung up. No action was taken at council meeting because the matter is supposed to be considered by the finance committee. This means there is yet hope for more crossing guards if the payroll money can be found.

If such becomes the case it will be of great relief to many mothers one of whom is pretty irate about the delay and wishes the school children "good luck" by encouraging them to think like adults and they may see another summer. As she says: "the elected officials would like to help you, but you're just not in the budget. They must save our money for industrial engineers, extended airport runways, etc. I could just cry. And I could hope, too, that the school buses don't run side by side in the dual lanes on Broadway as if they were running a race to the next stop light."

Well, well, there's a little case of high blood pressure here.

Will the finance committee do anything about it? Not, of course, about the busses which never exceed the speed limits, but about those four extra adult crossing guards.

Power Structure Delays Negro Voting

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Negro registration, under the most sweeping voting rights bill in history, started off in the key state of Mississippi with a bang. It is still going reasonably well. But terror, economic pressure, fear for jobs, the influence of the power structure have begun to leave their impact.

Nine days after federal registrars moved into LeFlore County, a 16-year-old Negro boy, Frederick Lee Thomas, was found on the highway between Sidon and Greenwood, dead. The coroner declared he was killed by a hit-and-run driver. The autopsy was held so quickly that night — and he was buried so speedily that Negroes were convinced he was murdered first, then tossed out on the highway.

Dr. Daniel Trigg, pathologist with the Greenwood LeFlore Hospital, admitted that there was a "remote possibility that death was caused by other than a hit-and-run driver."

Parents were told the body had to be buried without further delay, otherwise the county would bury him. All this added to the suspicion that Freddie Lee Thomas was the victim of the Klan's campaign to frighten Negroes away from federal registrars. Klan threats to those who registered were in the open. Word from plantation owners that those who registered would have to move was not in the open. Net result: Civil rights workers who offered to take Negroes to the polls found them scared. They had decided not to take advantage of their new right to vote.

This is the report from one part of Mississippi.

Report From Bogalusa

In Louisiana, here is the report from Henry Park, a civil rights leader in Bogalusa, where the most intensive drive in the state was staged to improve the Negroes' economic position:

"As far as I can see the summer in Bogalusa was a failure. The few gains—two Negroes on the police force, seven children in the schools, another woman working at Crown Zellerbach—are not really impressive. The businessmen remain intransigent. There seem to be no plans to re-open the parks, provide for adequate sewage, sidewalks and street paving in the Negro section.

"Worst of all, it seems very evident that the Klan will soon resume its regular activities of terror and violence."

That's the report from one part of Louisiana.

Report From Washington

In Washington an important showdown is scheduled in the House of Representatives when the long delayed vote on seating the Mississippi congressmen comes to a head.

Just as the power structure has been exerting its influence over voting in Mississippi and Louisiana, so the power structure is showing its strength in Congress.

In Congress the power structure is composed of committee chairmen who can delay or speed up legislation, who make moves only when they have the votes to win.

And the power structure played the showdown vote on Mississippi so close to its chest that the approximate one-third of the House who voted not to seat the Mississippi congressmen last January did not know that the House administration committee was moving to dismiss the seating challenge until they read about it in the Jackson, Miss., News, Sept. 2.

Chairman of the subcommittee is Rep. Robert Ashmore of South Carolina. Chairman of the full committee is Rep. Omar Burleson of Texas. Both are Democrats.

At first the committee scheduled the showdown vote for today (Sept. 14), the day when all New York and Michigan congressmen—the most active in supporting the Mississippi challenge—must be home for important municipal primaries.

The attempt to unseat the Mississippians therefore is almost certainly doomed to failure, chiefly for two reasons:

The first is cronyism or, to use a more elegant word, friendship. The Mississippi congressmen are likeable, personable people. John Bell Williams, the one-armed veteran who deserted LBJ last November, is a popular member of the House.

So it's difficult for congressmen who have sat beside these men in committees, lunched with them, relaxed with them to vote to retire them from Congress.

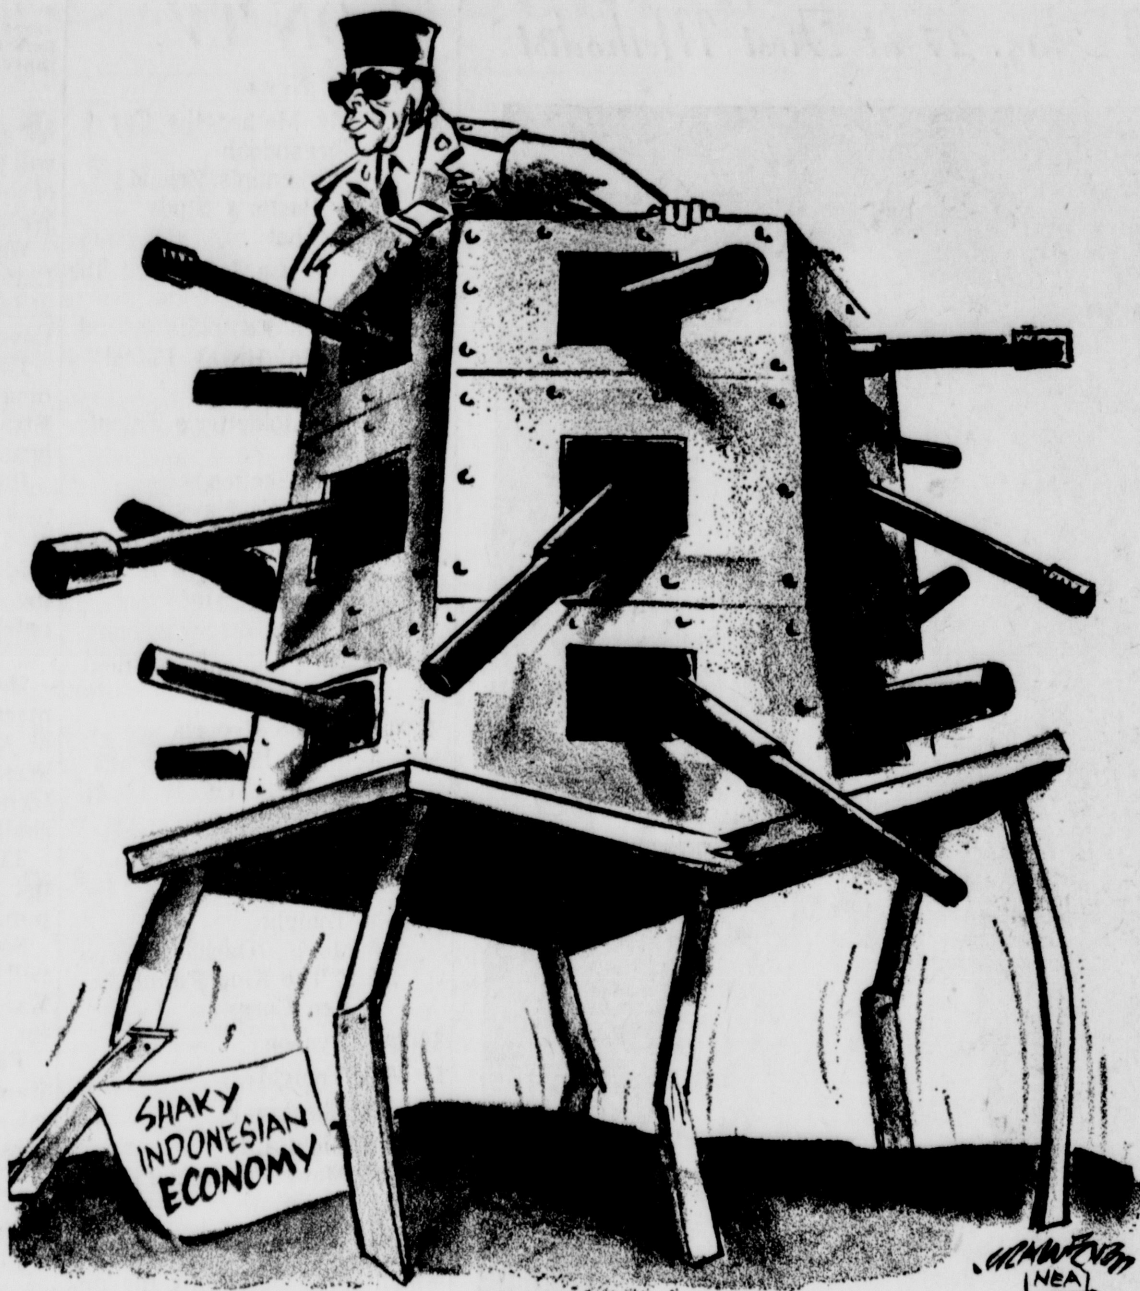

That is why men like Rep. Bill Moorhead, Democrat, and Jim Fulton, Republican, both from Pittsburgh, Pa., with a heavy Negro population, voted for seating the Mississippians last January.

Second, many congressmen, sincerely for civil rights, don't realize that they can pass civil rights laws until the cows come home yet not materially affect the voting pattern of the south. What will affect the power structure of the south is a blunt rebuff of the southern power structure, as for instance a demonstration that Mississippi's Jamie Whitten, who held up money for the entire Agriculture Department for seven months in 1963 until his district got a cottonseed control laboratory, will not be able to exercise that power anymore.

Men like Speaker John McCormack of Boston, a sincere believer in civil rights, don't understand that this economic power counts more than civil rights laws. That was why John has been tolerant of the good-natured, likeable congressmen from Mississippi.

And that is why most Republican congressmen, though professing allegiance to the ideals of Abe Lincoln, will be tolerant also.

Free Vote Might Have Been Better

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — In two different places there was talk about letting the people vote on the kind of government they wanted. But that was long ago, and it never happened. And now there is war in the two places.

Maybe there would have been these wars anyway, for they had other roots, too, in deep antagonisms and ambitions. And it doesn't make much difference now that the two leaders who said no to the vote of the people are both dead.

Their successors, in India and Viet Nam, have the same attitude.

When the Communist-led Vietnamese crushed the French in 1954 an agreement was worked out at Geneva with Britain, France, the Soviet Union, Red China, North Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia taking part.

The United States didn't sign. It was acting as an onlooker. The agreement divided Viet Nam into North and South, with the Communists getting the northern part. The South Vietnamese were left to set up their own provisional government.

But by 1956, according to the agreement which set down some other conditions also, all the people of the two Viet Nams were to be allowed to vote on the kind of single government they wanted for the whole country.

Meanwhile, in 1955 in South Viet Nam, a republic was created with Ngo Dinh Diem president. When the time came for that nationwide vote in 1956 he said no. His explanation was that he had not signed the Geneva agreement. The United States, which hadn't signed, either, backed him up.

It was hardly his only reason. The Reds might have won the election. The North Vietnamese outnumbered the South Vietnamese only by about 16 million to 15 million.

But the Reds had tight control over the North Vietnamese and a lot of sympathizers in South Viet Nam which, besides, was badly split into factions.

In 1958, about two years after the vote was to have taken place, the Red guerrillas slowly started their war against South Viet Nam. Eventually they took over most of the countryside.

By the time Diem was overthrown and killed in 1963 the United States was well on its way to getting up to its neck in the war, as it is now.

India's Prime Minister Nehru, who died last year, had a problem similar to President Diem's. India, while Britain held it, was made up mostly of Hindus and Moslems, with the Hindus far outnumbering the Moslems.

When India got independence in 1947, the minority Moslems didn't want to be totally dominated by Hindus. In the fuss that followed, a couple of chunks of India were broken off to become the independent state of Pakistan.

There's still a mixup. In the Moslem-run Pakistan, with a population of about 100 million, about 10 million are Hindus. In India, with 450 million people, about 50 million are Moslems.

But one of the loveliest places in the world, Kashmir, became one of the sorest. There, wedged in between India and Pakistan, with 77 per cent of the people Moslems in a population of 4 million, Kashmir was run by a Hindu maharajah who tried to stay aloof from both India and Pakistan.

But when Moslem tribesmen from Pakistan poured into Kashmir in 1947 and began looting and burning villages, he decided to join India which sent in troops to help him. Pakistan sent in troops to help its tribesmen.

The fighting lasted a year until the United Nations got a cease-fire. When the shooting stopped one-third of Kashmir was on Pakistan's side of the cease-fire line. The rest was on India's side.

The United Nations suggested that all the people of Kashmir be allowed to vote to decide whether they wanted to join India or Pakistan. Nehru agreed, provided Pakistan pull out its troops first. Pakistan wouldn't withdraw unless the Indians got out.

Then Nehru suggested partitioning Kashmir along the cease-fire line, a move which would let Pakistan have only one-third while India got two-thirds. Pakistan refused, and for an obvious reason:

Knowing that 77 per cent of the people of Kashmir were Moslems, and assuming they'd vote to join Moslem Pakistan if given the chance, Pakistan insisted they be allowed to vote. This went on like ping-pong until 1955.

Then Nehru switched and refused to permit a vote at all. The picking and pecking continued and now there's a war again, with Pakistan still insisting on a vote and the Indians insisting this is ridiculous, that Kashmir belongs to India.

Four Important Hours

By Susan Light

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
DEAR MRS. LIGHT: With the stepped-up programs in education today — kindergartners learning to read, first graders studying algebra, high school students mastering calculus — my kids don't have time to call their souls their own. Every minute counts, it seems, and any student who dawdles falls woefully behind his classmates.

Yet, with all the stuff they have to assimilate between kindergarten and college, their schools still take time out for frill subjects. In my boys' elementary school, for instance, music, art, and gym classes take four hours out of the school week. This doesn't seem to jibe with the emphasis on reading, math, and science.

Seems to me this time would be far better spent in supervised study and individual help so the children would have less to do at home. The kids are warned not to waste time — but what about the schools? — SERIOUS DAD

ANSWER: Most schools don't consider courses like music, art, and physical education a waste of time. To paraphrase an old adage, all math and no music makes Jack a dull boy.

In the last decade our schools have taken on a number of responsibilities that may be somewhat questionable from a strictly academic viewpoint. Nevertheless, they are important. One of these is education for leisure time.

Paradoxically, while students are working harder and harder, the older generation is easing up, with shorter work weeks, more vacation time, and earlier retirement. Consequently students must learn to use the leisure they will eventually have, developing interest and hobbies to fall back on in later years.

Recently the American Music Conference queried more than 100 psychologists about the psychological implications of increasing leisure time, the responsibility of schools in preparing students for it, and the value of various studies in meeting nonvocational objectives. Almost 85 per cent felt schools should foster creative leisure-time activities and cited music, art, and physical education courses as the best means for doing so. Less than 2 per cent thought such courses took too much time from more important subjects.

In my experience, I've found "special classes" give both students and classroom teachers a welcome break in the school day. Relax, Dad. That four hours a week may help your children to get more out of life, both now and 50 years hence.

THE DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Early Treatment To Check Liver Cirrhosis

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q — How does a doctor diagnose cirrhosis of the liver? What are the symptoms? Is there a cure?

A — The diagnosis is based on a history of chronic malnutrition, alcoholism or hepatitis; feeling the liver and finding it of a harder than normal consistency; and a series of laboratory tests which show loss of normal liver function. In the early stages the victim has a loss of appetite and easy fatigability. Later there is loss of weight, a collection of fluid in the abdomen, jaundice and bleeding from the stomach or esophagus.

This is a serious disease but skillful treatment in the early stages may result in a cure. Every effort must be made to get the victim to put on weight. Vitamin supplements may be needed. Alcohol must be completely renounced. A salt-poor diet and water pills (diuretics) help to relieve the fluid accumulation in the tissues.

Q — My son, 18, had an operation in January to remove a pterygium from both eyes. Now they are growing back again. Is there any way to prevent such a recurrence?

A — A pterygium is a membrane that grows out, usually from the inner corner of the eye, onto the cornea. Surgical removal is the only treatment. The removal must be complete followed by scraping or cautery of the involved area to prevent recurrence but even this is not a guarantee.

Q — What is tunnel vision? Is it curable?

A — Telescopic, tubular or tunnel vision is a contraction of the visual field until you see only what is directly in front of you — no vision out of the corner of your eye. This occurs in advanced glaucoma and retinitis pigmentosa. If either of these diseases has progressed to the point of tunnel vision total blindness is inevitable.

Hysteria sometimes causes tunnel vision and even complete blindness. Since this is an emotional reaction, an eye specialist will find nothing wrong with the eyes and cure is possible if the underlying cause is discovered and removed. This would require the services of a psychiatrist or a psychiatrically oriented internist.

Three New Members Make Up For UN Loss

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United Nations, which lost a member six months ago, will more than make up for that soon by gaining three new ones.

Gambia, the Maldives Islands and Singapore are expected to be admitted to the organization by the General Assembly when it starts its 20th annual session a week from today. That will boost the membership to 117.

Gambia is a sliver of West Africa surrounded by Senegal. Singapore is a big-city island off the Malay peninsula. The Maldives are 2,000 islands in the Indian Ocean 420 miles southwest of Ceylon.

The United Nations' present membership is 114. Indonesia quit at the end of last February in protest at the election of Malaysia to the Security Council. Indonesia is fighting Malaysia.

DEAR POLLY — If table space is at a premium with too many small guests at a party or too many relatives at a family gathering, try making a sort of indoor picnic out of refreshment time. They really seem to have a better time than they might at a regular table.

Will Four-Year Investment Pay?

By JOHN C. HOY
Dean of Admissions
Wesleyan University
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

If anyone in your family plans to go to college, you should all take an honest look at the size of the human investment ahead. In all likelihood parents will be investing between $10,000 and $16,000 for tuition, room, board, books, travel and incidental expenses during the four-year period.

And since college-age men and women have reached the productive age, it is estimated that any one of them would be capable of earning somewhere between $12,000 and $20,000 had they not gone to college for four years.

These material statistics are called to a family's attention to point out that the decision before any college candidate is no small one, even by one of its relatively minor yardsticks, the dollar. A college education is without question the largest single investment most people ever make in themselves.

But there are other factors of even greater weight.

Four years carved out of one's youth is a significant period of time. How these four years are invested can substantially alter the individual's approach to all the challenges to be faced in the five or six decades of life.

after college; colleges have the peculiar power of shaping the aspirations of their graduates.

If this investment of dollars, earning potential and four formative years is made unwisely, the price of the mistake can be the costliest parents or their offspring ever will have to face.

At the extreme—and too often the extreme—is realized—the child may never have the opportunity to fulfill his potential. Thus this person's capacity for making a satisfactory way in the world may seriously be damaged. The price for this is often spelled out in dissatisfaction throughout life and a probable loss of hundreds of thousands of dollars in earning potential.

Unfortunately, there are more wrong than right decisions made about college. During the last half century more than 50 percent of students who entered college in this country became dropouts. Add to this staggering percentage the number of students who merely "got by" or who finished although they ended up in the wrong school or majoring in the wrong course. One begins to realize how much thought and effort is required to turn the odds in the favor of any student.

But the odds can be turned in one's favor providing the student is willing to give enough careful thought to the selection of a college and to the reasons for deciding to attend a particular school in the first place.

The student should never be allowed to back into the choice of a college. Instead, the choice must be made with eyes wide open. The candidate must be very much aware of all the alternatives. Young men and women must think and plot a campaign designed to familiarize themselves with the possibilities open to them in higher education. They must clarify their own philosophy of higher education and what they want to accomplish during these last years of formal preparation for life.

To plan wisely it must be recognized that men and women of 17 or 18 are essentially the persons they will become after youth has passed. Therefore, if they do the right job of assessing their potentials, their weaknesses and strengths, they will have made a good start toward the right college decision.

And it is extremely important for parents to realize that this is the time to allow the young adult to make his own decision and live with it.

Unless young adults can make this decision on their own, they are not ready for college.

This reality—that their child, ready to enter college, is already a young adult—is difficult for many parents to accept.

Once this self-appraisal has been made, the students themselves must decide which college can do the best job of recognizing their potentials and helping them refine these potentials. The process of a college education, after all, is usually more a refinement of potentials than a process of acquiring new ones.

This refinement process can take place in a wide variety of settings. Clearly no particular institution has a priority on this kind of offering.

Giants Throw Once Hectic NL Pennant Bid Wide Open

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer
500 plus 22 plus 11 equals 2 1/2. And that's the largest lead any National League team has had in a month.

The San Francisco Giants continued opening up the once-hectic race Monday night, defeating Houston 5-1 behind Willie Mays and Juan Marichal and moving 2 1/2 games in front of the idle Los Angeles Dodgers. Mays clouted the 500th home run of his major league career while Marichal gained his 22nd victory of the season. Combined, they sparked the Giants to their 11th consecutive triumph, one less than the longest winning streak in the majors this year.

The home run for Mays, his 47th this season, came at the start of the fourth inning on a 3-1 pitch from Don Nottebart. It tied the game 1-1 and triggered a four-run rally that put San Francisco ahead to stay.

After Mays drove his homer into the center field stands — he hit the first in his career in 1951 against Warren Spahn in New York's Polo Grounds — his teammates mobbed him and congratulated him. Then they went out and secured the victory for Marichal.

It was the third in four decisions for the 26-year-old right-hander since he was suspended eight days for hitting catcher John Roseboro of Los Angeles on the head with a bat.

Marichal, who has lost 10 games, was booed by the Houston fans, but that didn't bother him as he scattered eight hits, tying Sandy Koufax as the winningest pitcher in the majors, completing his 24th game and reducing his stingy earned run average to 1.79.

In the only other NL games, Pittsburgh dropped Cincinnati 3 1/2 games behind by winning 8-4 and Philadelphia edged Milwaukee 4-3, sending the Braves five back.

The only scheduled American League game, Cleveland at Baltimore, was rained out.

Vernon Law gave up four runs on three hits, including Deron Johnson's two-run homer, in the first inning but held the Reds to only three hits the rest of the way. He wound up winning his 17th game against nine defeats while Sammy Ellis dropped his ninth game against 19 victories.

Willie Stargell sparked the Pirates' comeback, driving in three runs with a double and a sacrifice fly. Gene Alley contributed a homer, a double and a single.

Clay Dalrymple's seventh-inning homer snapped a 3-3 deadlock and gave the Phillies their fifth straight triumph. Philadelphia tied the game with two runs in the fifth off Milwaukee's Ken Johnson. Dalrymple walked with the bases loaded, forcing in the tying run.

Form Chart Not Overly Optimistic

COLUMBIA, (Special) — The form chart on Missouri's football opener with Kentucky here Saturday points up one fundamental fact, not at all reassuring to Tiger followers.

The Wildcats, under Coach Charlie Brashaw, always show a lot of early zip, while Missouri has flubbed its opening game test more often than not during the Dan Devine era. Of concern, too, is Kentucky's tendency to advance in pre-season practice time. The Southeast conference squad began workouts Aug. 21.

Bradshaw's teams haven't lost an inaugural in three tries. They won two, and tied the other. Highlighting last year's early football success was back-to-back upsets of Mississippi and Auburn. Ole Miss was ranked No. 1 nationally when the Wildcats whipped them, 28-21.

Devine, the nation's third winningest coach, has had only three smooth take-offs in seven previous seasons at Missouri. He stands 3-4. The Bengals lost their 1963 and 1964 debuts to Northwestern and California. Ringleader of both defeats was a slick passer — Tom Myers of Northwestern and Cal's Craig Morton. That's a scary reminder for M. U. because Rick Norton, Kentucky quarterback, is a constant threat in the 'Cats air-oriented attack. Norton, a senior from Louisville, threw 106 strikes in 202 attempts last year for 1,514 yards — and nine touchdowns. That almost doubled the aerial production of Missouri's Gary Lane, who finished with 770 airborne yards.

Both camps feel this opener will offer a solid line on their 1965 hopes. Each team is picked to finish among the nation's top 20 teams by at least one national publication.

Missouri's seniors, frustrated in two previous openers, want this one badly. Expressing the prevailing thought among Tiger veterans, Tom Lynn — 220-pound defensive end — says: "We'll need to have something extra in that first game. It's gonna be tough. I think everyone realizes that."

Hot Sun Too Much For Britons

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — A blazing Oklahoma sun boiled the starch out of Briton's challenge in the U.S. Amateur Golf Championships and left the English bulldog a bit droopy and bedraggled today going into the final practice rounds.

Even the dogs had deserted the rolling, 6,917 yards of the Southern Hills Country Club when a willing, once-favored band of Englishmen trudged through their last practice session in record 103-degree temperatures.

"If the weather stays like this, you can count us out," Joe Carr, captain of the British Walker Cup team, said Monday.

The 65th National Championships open on the par 35-36-71 layout Wednesday under a new format — medal instead of match play. Four rounds of 18 holes each are scheduled through Saturday, with a field of 150 cut to the low 60 and ties after Thursday's second round. Continued hot weather is forecast.

The British challenge appeared to be the strongest since the 1930s after their surprising tie with this country's best in the Walker Cup matches at Baltimore two weeks ago.

In fact, figuring that the winner almost certainly will come from the Walker Cuppers — either British or American — the English appeared to have a 50 per cent chance of taking it.

Not so, says Carr. "Your chaps may be used to this heat. We're not."

Casualties And Cutdowns Prime Football Subjects

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Casualties and cutdowns are among today's prime pro football topics.

Several stars are on the National Football League's latest casualty list with injuries and ailments serious enough to keep them sidelined at least through next Sunday's opening action.

Included on that list are Gail Cogdill, the Detroit Lions' fine pass receiver; defensive back Lonnie Sanders of the Washington Redskins; linebacker Larry Stallings and defensive back Abe Woodson of the St. Louis Cardinals; and pass catcher Bucky Pope and defensive end Lamar Lundy of the Los Angeles Rams.

Final roster cutdowns — the toughest to make — come today for the NFL teams, down to the regular season limit of 40 players.

Cogdill suffered a fractured right kneecap in the Lions' exhibition game against the Redskins Sunday and will be idled five or six weeks. Sanders will be out the same length of time with a broken right forearm received in the same game. Washington linebacker Bob Pelletini pulled a groin muscle against the Lions, making him doubtful for Sunday's opener against Cleveland.

Stallings and Woodson both were racked up in the Cards' battle against Green Bay last Saturday night. Stallings will be out indefinitely with torn ligaments in his left knee and Woodson, a kick return specialist as well as defensive back, is expected to miss three or four weeks with a dislocated shoulder.

Pope and rookie defensive back Clancy Williams have knee troubles, while Lundy is recuperating from a minor kidney operation. The Rams will be without all three in Sunday's game against Detroit.

The New York Giants trimmed to 40 players Monday by cutting three men and adding one. They dropped veteran defensive back Allan Webb along with two rookies, defensive end Frank McClendon and tackle Dave Powless, and picked up defensive tackle Roger LaLonde, cut by the Lions.

Dallas also got down to 40 men, releasing defensive back Ernie Kellerman, while San Francisco dropped to 41 by cutting defensive back Bobby Waters and linebacker Floyd Dean.

The Pittsburgh Steelers signed defensive tackle Riley Gunnels, a six-year pro placed on waivers by Philadelphia.

Mays Hits His 500th Home Run

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Willie Mays collected only one hit Monday night against the Astros.

"It was a fast ball," the San Francisco Giants' star said, "and I thought I hit it good."

Pretty good. It dropped into the center field seats about 410 feet from home plate — Willie's 500th home run in his major league career.

It was Willie's 47th four-bagger this year.

"I wasn't even looking to get 500 this year, to tell you the truth," Willie said after the game.

Did he know he was only 11 short of Mel Ott's National League record?

"Sure, I know that."

"When did he check it?"

"I don't have to check on it. I just know it."

He then proceeded to rattle off the career home run records of Jimmy Foxx, 534, and Ted Williams, 526, and the king of them all, Babe Ruth, 714.

MU Coach Predicts Hard Opening Day

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer
Missouri coach Dan Devine says Kentucky is a great team, Bob Churchich won the quarterback starting job at Nebraska and the injury news was bad at Kansas State and Kansas in Big Eight football Monday.

"I consider Kentucky to be the toughest football opener in my college career," Devine said "and we've had some tough ones."

They are one of the five best teams in the nation, with excellent coaching, great personnel and a fine football tradition. The game will be Saturday in Columbia, Mo.

Devine scheduled a brief, light scrimmage for today, to provide a little contact work for a half dozen players sidelined this fall by injuries or held out of contact because of knee operations.

Churchich, who took over for the injured Fred Duda and won the Big Eight passing title a year ago, was named to start the opener with TCU at Lincoln. Duda is recovered and has been battling Churchich for the No. 1 job. The rest of Nebraska's starting backfield will be Frank Solich at fullback, Harry Wilson and Ron Kirkland at the halfbacks.

At Kansas, Coach Jack Mitchell said quarterback Bob Skahan, key man in the team's passing game, has only about a 5 per cent chance of playing or making the trip for the season opener at Texas Tech.

"He'd have to be pretty well because he could pull the same thigh muscle again and then he'd be out for the season," Mitchell said.

K-State offensive end Rod Nicholson will undergo an operation today for a shoulder separation suffered last week. He's

Pitching Heroes

CHICAGO (AP) — The heroes of the year's greatest pitching duel — Sandy Koufax of the Dodgers and Bob Hendley of the Cubs — meet again today.

Koufax has to win if Los Angeles is to stay in the National League pennant contention. And Hendley could have his own good reason for wanting to win for the eighth-place Cubs: revenge.

At Chavez Ravine last Thursday night, Hendley pitched a one-hitter and the Cubs lost 1-0 when Koufax pitched a no-hitter and a perfect game.

Actor to Receive A Service Award

NEW YORK (AP) — Actor William Gargan, robbed of his career by cancer five years ago, is being honored for his real-life role of helping other victims.

His larynx and vocal chords were removed in 1960 and with it went the voice made familiar by 35 years on the stage, movies and television. As "Martin Kane" he was one of the first television private eyes.

Gargan, 60, learned to talk again by swallowing air and releasing it to vibrate the esophagus. Since then he has traveled for the American Cancer Society, encouraging other victims and greeting volunteer fund raisers with "thank you for saving my life."

Dr. Charles W. Mayo of Rochester, Minn., said Sunday night that Gargan will be presented the Mutual of Omaha Criss award Oct. 26 at a banquet in Beverly Hills, Calif.

Change does not necessarily assure progress, but progress implacably requires change . . . Education is essential to change, for education creates both new wants and the ability to satisfy them.

Officials vs. Dollar Drain

New Problems Always Seem To Meet Finance Solutions

By ADREN COOPER
WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. balance of payments problem has been compared to a balloon — you mash it in one place and it pushes out somewhere else.

This description by Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor illustrates the frustration some government officials feel in grappling with the dollar drain.

Twice within a two-year period government officials conquered segments of the problem only to have trouble appear in another sector.

The United States has been running a deficit because government outlays for military operations overseas and foreign aid, and private expenditures abroad for imports, investments, loans and tourism are greater than the receipts from foreigners.

The problem stems, in part, from the great wealth and a high standard of living in this country. Our tourists have more to spend; our bankers have more to lend.

Sometimes actions to correct the payments imbalance run counter to national policy — overseas military operations, for instance — and they are usually ruled out.

Here is a sampling of some solutions which have been suggested:

How about shutting off foreign aid? This would keep several hundred million dollars at home but it would make only a dent in the payments deficit, which ran $3.1 billion last year.

Officials say that 80 per cent of foreign aid is in the form of U.S. goods and therefore does not represent a drain on the dollar. They say this figure will be increased to 90 per cent.

How about bringing some troops home from Europe? In the case of West Germany, where many of the U.S. forces are headquartered, there would be no saving since the government there has agreed to match dollars spent with purchases of military goods in this country.

However, moving troops out of some other countries — were it militarily feasible — would have an effect on the payments situation.

Some bankers and economists contend that raising U.S. interest rates would attract more capital to the United States. Administration officials argue that this would put a damper on domestic economic growth.

And Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler says it would not produce the desired result
